

Reflective

At Birchwood Avenue Primary School, we believe that being a 'reflective' learner is at the heart of our learning. As reflective learners, we can effectively evaluate our work and we have the ability, and resilience, to believe that we always have the potential to further improve our work; we can also identify, with confidence, when we have done things well! As reflective learners, we take pride in our own work, and that of others, and can celebrate all of our achievements. Being reflective allows us to ask questions and make deeper connections, which enables us to be the best learners we can be and, therefore, this makes 'reflective' a learning 'superpower'.

To allow us to have the 'superpower' reflective, we must think about how we must first be able to:

- Ask inquiring questions about our learning
- Talk about our learning/work with confidence
- Adapt our learning and make improvements to our work
- Discuss/identify what we have done well
- Know how we learn best
- Be proud of our work and that of others and celebrate successes
- Be active learners
